"WHO'S DEAD?"-New Albany, Ind., is a large town, and a growing place, too; but the ment of the season. citizens have a faculty, or facility for keeping pace with all the local events that transpire. This will be apparent when we relate an anecdote of a young dry-goods merchant of High morning, delivered his letters, and made ar at 5 o'clock to-morrow evening. rangements for the purchase of his goods. Bu: before making his selections he determined to indulge his curiosity with a stroll about town He accordingly spent a few hours very pleas antly about the streets, and returned, exhaust ed, to the store of his wholesale merchant, who engaged him in a familiar conversation as to what he had seen. The Hoosier said he had seen the place; was very much pleased with the appearance of things; thought the town was in proving, and so on. Just at that point in the conversation a funeral procession passed, which seemed to excite the New Albanian's sympa thy, and he inquired of his New York friend very carnestly who was dead. Much to the Hoosier's disappointment and surprise, the New Yorker didn't know, and the New Albany mer chant came home with a distrust for person who are so in different to the afflictions of fellowmortals as to be ignorant of the death of a near Thirteen negroes, formerly the property of Arnett Phillips, deceased, who resided some 12 miles from the city, were, by the terms o his will, s t free, upon the condition that they would leave Kentucky. Mrs. Phillips, the widow of the deceased, was in our city yesterday, or route for Oaio, with thirteen of the seventeer negroes, for the purpose of looking them up : enitable location. Fifteen hundred dollars is h be distributed among them for the purpose of settling them in their new home. If the freedom shrickers of Olio wish to show a little practical philanthropy, here is a case in point deserving their attention. There are four more negroes belonging to Mr. P.'s estate who wil be entitled to their free lom when they reac' the age of 21 years. Now, in the name of al their boasted philanthropy, let the Abolitionist show that these colored people are welcome to their State, or ever afterwards cease to abuse Kentucky and her institutions.

THE FIRE LAST EVENING .- There was at other dest; netive fire in our city about a o'eloc' last evening. Some six buildings at the corner of Ninth and Jefferson streets, were much in jured, and most of them destroyed, with their contents. The fire commenced in a small frame between Ninth and Tenth, and sprearapidly up street. Frame tenements, occupie. by Mr. Landrum, Mr. Jeffrey, Mr. Thompson and others unknown, were destroyed, and the large two-story brick on the corner of Ninth occupied by Mr. Badgett, as the "Gem" sa loon, and by a German as a grocery store, wn much damaged in the roof and upper story by fire and water. The loss was not very consid erable, but many poor families were thrown int | nonth, Mr. Alex. Davall, foreman. the strept, and some lost everything.

I always want to know when my money is coming in, as disappoints me once never gets any more money from me!" K. took the money, promising to do so. According to general supposition, his credit was thereby opened with G. to any extent; and, two weeks after, his friends pressin for repayment, and wanting a "stake" for himself, he applied boldly to G., nothing doubting his success. "Colonel, let's have a couple of undred for a day or so, will you?" "Can't, says G. "Sorry, but can't really—you disap-pointed me so about the last; and I told you that man who disappointed me once, never could get any more money from me." "Disappoint ed you," said K. "Why, Colonel, you mis take your man; I paid you to the hour and min-nte!" "Ah! exactly," said G., "that's just it. You see, I never expected to get it."

Washington, March 10. SENATE .- Mr. Pugh offered a resolution that as Senate adjourn on Saturday next.

Mr. Stuart thought as the session was called or purposes connected with the Executive deartment, the Senate should not adjourn till the siness be consummated. The adoption of the resolution was unnecessary, and could not be considered otherwise than disrespectful to the President.

Mr. Slidell did not concur in the remarks of

Mr. Stuart, and was unwilling to be placed in the category as showing disrespect to the President, who, if he wished the session prolonged, could so intimate, and to this there would be no

Mr. Mason said the Senate had but one day for executive session, and they had no conformation to enable them to ascertain whether the President has further business to lay before

Mr. Gwin hoped the resolution would lie over for the present.

Mr. Johnson had heard various gentlemen say no business should detain the Senate beyond Saturday, and therefore they should not prolong the fag end of the session. They would not be tble to get away till they fixed a time for adjournment. In consequence of the commis-sions of officers constantly expiring, they might be detained here until December. For him-self he could not here stay beyond the present week, and it was so with other gentlen Mr. Mason moved to lay the resolution o the table. Disagreed to by 20 to 23.

On motion of Mr. Crittenden, his resolutions were referred to the Committee on Foreign Re lations of the executive session. ARRIVAL OF THE EMU. New York, March 10. The steamship Emu has arrived with dates to the 22d. She passed the Europa on the

The Emu brings uo English papers. The Paris Constitutionnel explains the se eret convention between France and Austria, which lately elicited discussion in the English Parliament. The treaty, it says, stipulated for the actual concurrence of the Austrian armies in the struggle against Russia. Austria, however, represented that she could not enter into warlike operations in the East, so long as her Italian possessions should be menaced by political igitation; and she, therefore, demanded, before placing herself in order of battle, that the se curity of her Italian lines should be assumed France gave assistance, but, as Austria did not draw the sword, the object of the conven ever existed, and the treaty, therefore, is a dead

Washington, March 10. A majority of the Senate's Judiciary Constittee have decided to report a resolution for aking testimony in Indiana in reference to the intested election from that State, and will, it is said, report in favor of Cameron's right to a eat as Senator from Pennsylvania,
The Senate to-day, in Executive session, ratified commercial treaties with Persia, Venezuela, and Chili. The Committee on Foreign Relations will have a meeting to-morrow, to consider the Clarendon-Dallas Treaty.

All the South Carolina delegation, except Orr, are opposed to the principle of rotation in office. For the eleven federal offices in that State there are only two applicants. The present Post-master of Charleston is the second one who has reld that station since the organization of the Federal Government. Ex-President Pierce has gone to Virginia to
